

eir in collaboration with Sustainable World Capital organised in Geneva and Zurich a lunch presentation on the theme : Cleantech / Sustainable private equity fund : 4 established funds with differentiated strategies.

Iron Leaf Investors is a targeted $250 mm expansion-stage growth capital fund making cleantech investments in green technologies and systems. Iron Leaf will invest in companies with strong growth records and global potential in fast-growing markets. The management team's total deal volume approaches $100 billion. Partners include Jim Lane, chairman and general partner who was a founder of Goldman Sachs' private equity.

Mindful investors is a $150 mm North American growth-stage private equity fund that invests in fast growing, consumer facing companies in the rapidly expanding $60 billion natural, organic, and sustainable consumer products industry. The Fund's focus is to provide growth capital to companies enabling them to expand distribution of their products into mainstream retailers. The fund has had a first close and includes four portfolio companies with $300 mm combined revenues.

Wave Equity Partner manages a $250 mm private equity fund that exploits a unique arbitrage opportunity in the global Cleantech industries using proprietary investments models. WAVE's management team has delivered performance reaching 61% IRR (gross) and 42% IRR (net). WAVE will focus on the sectors of alternative energy, energy efficiency, and environmental security. The Fund will pursue a platform investment strategy that blends elements of venture capital and private equity with potential higher returns at lower risk relative to traditional private equity models.

Industrial Symbiosis Partners manages a $100 mm growth-stage private equity fund that invests in companies enabling the symbiotic reuse of industrial materials, water and energy. The long-term increase in demand for raw materials across all sectors of the global economy drives the Fund's business model. The Fund has had a first closing and has made four acquisitions. The team comprises of deep investment, operating, and industry expertise including two successful exits in the waste management industry and the foremost expert/researcher of industrial waste in the world.

If you wish to receive the powerpoint presentations of these funds, please send an email to francois@eir.ch.